Ursuline Convent of the Sacred Heart

COR. CHERRY and ERIE STREETS,
TOLEDO, OHIO.

This Institution, incorporated with the privileges of a College, is under the direction of the Ursuline Nuns.

The spiritual charge of the Convent is intrusted to an able Theologian, and the greatest possible attention is given to the religious training of the pupils. This feature, combined with the thorough method of instruction throughout the curriculum and the unrivaled advantages in the Musical Department, renders this institution worthy, in a particular manner, of the patronage of a discriminating public.

The course of studies embraces all the branches that are necessary to the acquisition of a solid and refined education. Gold Medals and Diplomas are conferred on graduates. Examinations are held semi-annually; private literary and musical re-unions take place every month; and official reports concerning the health, behavior, and progress of the pupil are transmitted at the end of each session to the parents or guardians.

Constant Care is taken to Promote the Health and Comfort of the Pupils.
Active Exercise in the Open Air is Enforced by Rule.

A Normal School is attached to the College, where great attention is paid to the thorough training of those preparing to teach.

Our Kindergarten is under the charge of a graduate from one of the celebrated Kindergarten Training Schools of New York City. Children from the age of three will be received.

A Craft and Family Magazine of two Volumes of 384 Pages each, at Two Dollars a Year.

EXPLANATORY.

The following, carefully compiled Interest Tables are so arranged, that the interest on all sums therein mentioned, as also on intermediate and larger sums, from one day to one year and over, at any rate from $\frac{1}{2}$ to 10 per cent., can be seen at a glance. Each sum has a separate page; the first horizontal line is the day and month line; D. signifies days, M. months, and Yr. years. The first perpendicular line gives the different rates of interest. Suppose, the interest of \$60.00 at 8 per cent. for 15 days is wanted.—Turn to the \$60.00 page, run down the first line to 8 per cent., then across to the 15 day line, where 20 cents is found, the interest for 15 days. Or suppose, the interest of \$160.00 at 10 per cent. for 4 months is wanted. Take first the \$100.00 page, run down the first line to 10 per cent., then across to the 4 months line, where \$3.33 is found; then turn to the \$60.00 page, and on the same line stands \$2.00; adding the two sums gives \$5.33, the exact amount of interest for the time given. To get the interest of \$800.00 at 6 per cent. for 1 year, 10 months and 24 days, turn to the \$800.00 page, which shows the amount for 1 year to be \$48.00, for 10 months \$40.00, for 20 days \$2.67, and for 4 days 53 cents, which together make \$91.20.

The method of using these Tables, as can be readily seen, is simple and easy, and will save time and labor.

YARD OR LAWN FENCING.

Section No. 1, represents Braided Wire. No. 2, Barbed Wire. No. 3, Plain Galvanized Wire.

We make the fence from any kind of wire to suit our customer, and use (any number of wires) but the braided wire is the prettiest wire we use, and its strength is not excelled. We cheerfully recommend it for yards, lawns, or parks. The fence will be prettier than the picture. Its beauty will remain the same for it will neither bend, break, or sag. In this fence the blockbinder works in the gate-post, which is cast iron, and the tension can be increased at any time. We guarantee that a force or blow that will bend a half-inch rod of iron will not leave an impression on the wires of this fence.

THE GHOLSON FENCING CO.

W. C. GHOLSON'S PATENT BLOCK-BINDING, TENSION EQUALIZING, WIRE FENCE.

Wire for strength, like everything else, must have its true application. The above is the way which shows posts 80, 100, and 140 feet apart. Wire passing through the brackets and resting upon the rollers, which are fastened to the post with a 2-inch bolt. The steel stays between the posts combining the wires into one strength. The wires fastened, only at the ends, to the block binder, by which the tension can be increased at any time. They will neither bend, break nor sag. When staple or otherwise fastened to posts they will. The longest panel in the above has the greatest power of resistance to storms, floods and animals. This fence is sold by special agents and they are wanted everywhere. For terms and large illustrated circular, address

W. C. GHOLSON, Patentee and General Superintendent,

Farm or Railroad Fencing.

It is wonderful how the Farm Fence has taken hold of the minds of the people as being the only true way of building wire fence.

In a few more months there will be none left to doubt its merits.

New Agents are taking hold of territory every day, and the universal reply from them is, my fence is up and all who see it say it is the best fence they ever saw.

THE FENCE IS BUILT FOR ALL PURPOSES,

To turn the largest or smallest animals, using from three to ten wires, and even more.

Vorbemerkung.

Die hier vorliegenden, mit der größten Sorgfalt ausgearbeiteten Zins-Tabellen sind so eingerichtet, daß man den Zins auf die angegebenen wie zwischen diesen liegende und höhere Summen, von einem Tage bis zu einem Jahre und darüber, von $\frac{1}{2}$ bis zu 10 Procent mit Leichtigkeit berechnen kann. Auf jeder Seite ist eine bestimmte Summe berechnet; die erste, oben querlaufende Linie ist die Tage- und Monatslinie; D. steht für Days, Tage, M. steht für Months, Monate, und Yr. für Year, Jahr, während die erste, von oben nach unten laufende Linie die verschiedenen Procentsätze angiebt. Will Jemand nun wissen, wie viel Zins \$60.00 mit 8 Procent auf 15 Tage bringen, so nehme er die 60 Dollars-Seite, gehe zur 8 Procent-Linie und diese entlang bis 15 Tage, wo er 20 Cents ausgeworfen findet, den Zins für 15 Tage. Will er wissen, welchen Betrag \$160.00 zu 10 Procent angelegt, auf 4 Monate ergeben, so nehme er zuerst die 100 Dollars-Seite, gehe die 10 Procent-Linie entlang bis 4 Monate, wo er \$3.33 angegeben findet, und dann zur 60 Dollars-Seite, ebenfalls zu jener Stelle, wo \$2.00 verzeichnet sind; \$3.33 und \$2.00 machen \$5.33, den genauen Zinsbetrag für diesen Zeitraum. Sollen \$800.00, welche 6 Procent Zins tragen, für 1 Jahr, 10 Monate und 24 Tage berechnet werden, so schlage man die 800 Dollars-Seite auf und notire nach den betreffenden Zeitpunkten für 1 Jahr \$48.00, für 10 Monate \$40.00, für 20 Tage \$2.67 und für 4 Tage 53 Cts., welches zusammen \$91.20 ergibt. — Wie ersichtlich, ist die Benutzung dieser Tabellen eine leichte; sie wird Zeit und Mühe ersparen.

Persons living at a distance can come one day and go home the next day CURED. Spinal Curvatures treated and cured by the use of Plaster-of-Paris Jackets. Epilepsy or Fits cured. Convulsions stopped in 24 hours after taking our specific.

BILLS OF EXCHANGE.

A Bill of Exchange is an order from an American Bank or Broker, directing some foreign Bank or Broker to pay a certain sum of money to the person named in the bill. This bill of exchange is then sent to the person named in it, who draws the amount specified in the bill. For instance, a merchant in New York owed a merchant in London five hundred dollars. Instead of remitting the money to the merchant in London, he would buy a Bill of Exchange from a Bank or Broker in New York for the amount, and transmit it to his creditor in London, and thus liquidate the debt. Bankers and Brokers charge a commission for issuing bills of exchange.

Drafts.--Drafts are similar to bills of exchange, only that they are local in their application, instead of being an order on a foreign Bank or Broker. They are confined to Banks and Brokers in this country. For instance, a person in Cincinnati owed a gentleman in Philadelphia two hundred dollars; he could buy a draft for that amount in Cincinnati, from some Bank or Broker there, ordering some Philadelphia Bank or Broker to pay the two hundred dollars to the party named in the draft. The draft is sent by mail to the party in whose favor the draft is drawn. A commission is also charged for issuing drafts. Drafts can be sent through banks for collection.

FACTS.

This MATTRESS is the most elastic and durable. Never stretches or sags. There is no lodgement for vermin or dust. Will not retain the germ of disease. Requires no bedding in summer but two quilts and sheet, and in winter but a light mattress. It is PERFECTLY NOISELESS, and will last a life-time. Will stand a strain of 1,500 pounds.

The wire webbing is composed of spiral coils, interlocking at each revolution with the preceding formed coils, with cords at intervals for additional strength, composed of the best steel, highly tempered, with a tinned surface to prevent corrosion when exposed to dampness or water. It affords no opportunity to become infected with impurities arising from the body or from the lodgement of fibrous matter or harboring of vermin. It conduces to health comfort and convenience. A (2) two-inch thick hair or cotton mattress, or (2) two blankets or comforts in warm weather is all that is required.

We will guarantee it to outwear (6) six $40 box mattresses, or (6) six of the so-called Woven Wire Mattresses, which are simply a chain connecting from (4) four sides, which cannot produce strength.

We will give $100 for any other weave of Wire Mattress that will stand the same test.

In ordering mattress give the length of slat, thickness of block in four corners of bed, and length of side rails. Call at office and see the Mattress that has been in constant use for over 20 years, and is now as good as when new. We can refer you to Mattresses which have been in use for over 20 years, and are as perfect as when bought.

Public Lands.—The Laws Governing Homesteads and Tree Claims Explained.

An actual residence is required under the Homestead act to secure a claim, but not under the Tree-Culture act. The law requires continuous residence to be commenced on a homestead within six months after date of entry, and maintained until final proof is made. The claimant must prove five years' continuous residence on the land, and improvement thereof, before a patent can be granted. The proof of a home in another place is fatal to the right of the claimant. The Tree-Culture act requires the claimant to plant, protect and keep in a healthy growing condition for eight years, ten acres of timber on a quarter section of 160 acres, or a proportionate acreage of timber on any legal sub-division of a quarter-section. Only such lands as are devoid of timber can be taken up. Residence or settlement is not required. A patent is granted on final proof at the end of eight years. A person may take up a homestead and tree-culture claim at the same time. Under these laws the payment of the Land-Office fees is all that is required. Under the pre-emption act a person can procure a quarter-section by immediate entry, six months' actual residence and cultivation, and payment of the Government price within thirty months after filing his declaration of intent to purchase. A person may procure 480 acres of land by proving up on a pre-emption claim first, and then taking up a homestead. The tree-claim can be made at any time. A person who already possesses 320 acres of land is barred from the benefits of the pre-emption act.

All citizens of the United States, or persons who have legally declared their intention to become such, who are over 21 years of age, are entitled to the benefits of the Homestead law. But, inasmuch as an actual bona-fide home on each homestead is required by law, it would, as a general thing, be inconvenient for a man and wife to each locate a claim and faithfully carry out the provisions of the law. Pre-emption claims are confined to heads of families, widows, or single persons over 21 years old. Land-Offices are located in the following States and Territories: Alabama, Arkansas, Arizona, California, Colorado, Dakota, Florida, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Agricultural Statistics.

Farms in 1880 and 1870.—The following table shows the number of farms in the United States in 1880, and the number in 1870:

	1880.	1870.	1880.	1870.
Total No. of farms .	4,008,907	2,650,985
Under 100 acres. . .	2,208,374	2,075,338	500 to 1,000 acres . .	75,972
100 to 500 acres . . .	1,695,983	565,054	1,000 acres and over .	28,578

The increase in the number of farms since 1870 has been entirely among those of fifty acres and over. Of smaller farms there were more in the earlier year. There were, for instance, in 1880, three times as many farms from 100 to 500 acres as there were in 1870, and the increase in the number of farms of still greater area was in a much higher proportion. The state which has the largest number of farms of 1,000 acres and over is Georgia, 902. Then follow in order Alabama, 696; Virginia, 641; South Carolina, 482; Mississippi, 481; Louisiana, 371; North Carolina, 311; California, 262; Illinois, 194. In New York the number of farms of so great an extent is only twenty-one.

The total land in Farms in the United States was 536,081,835 acres in 1880, against 407,735,041 acres in 1870. Of this land 284,771,042 acres were improved in 1880, and 188,921,099 acres in 1870. The value of the farms was $10,197,096,776 in 1880, against $9,262,803,861 in 1870. The value of farming implements and machinery was $406,520,055 in 1880, and $326,878,429 in 1870. In all comparisons of values between 1870 and 1880, it should be borne in mind that in the former year gold was at an average premium of 25.3 per cent.

Here there is on apparent falling off; but the premium on gold in 1870 must be remembered, and, as will be seen by the following table, there was a great increase in the number of live stock in 1880 as compared with 1870:

Tax Law of Ohio.—Taxes on real estate become a lien on the day preceding the second Monday of April. They are payable between October 1st and December 20th each year, but the owner may, at his option, pay the full amount on or before December 20th, or one-half then and the remainder between April 1st and June 20th following. A penalty of fifteen per cent. is added to each semi-annual installment not severally paid on or before December 20th and June 20th, or collected by law prior to the February or August settlement after due. If any delinquent tax of the previous year and a half of the current year's tax is not paid on or before December 20th, the property is advertised, by the county treasurer, for sale on the third Tuesday of January following, and sold to the person who will pay all the taxes and penalties then due. The owner can redeem within two years after such sale by depositing with the county treasurer an amount of money equal to that for which the land was sold, and all subsequent taxes paid by the purchaser, together with interest and a penalty of fifteen per cent. if redeemed within one year, and twenty-five per cent. if redeemed after first year. If not redeemed after two years, the purchaser is entitled to a deed from the county auditor. Titles thus acquired have generally been held invalid by the courts on account of irregularities by the county officers. Land offered by treasurer and not sold becomes forfeited to the State, and is again offered once in each two years until sold, for the delinquent and accrued taxes. If all the taxes and penalties are paid before sale the State relinquishes its claim, and the land is re-entered on tax records in name of proper owner. The owner may redeem from a forfeited sale, at any time within six months after the sale, by depositing with the county treasurer the amount of the sale, together with fifty per cent. thereon, and by paying all other expenses incidental to the sale.

DIVORCE LAWS OF DIFFERENT STATES.

Alabama.—Divorce Law.—The court of chancery has power to divorce persons from the bonds of matrimony, or from bed and board, upon bill filed in chancery by the aggrieved party, for the causes following: For impotency; for adultery; for voluntary abandonment from bed and board for two years next preceding the filing of the bill; for imprisonment in the penitentiary for two years, the sentence being for seven years or longer; for the commission of the crime against nature with mankind or beast, whether before or after marriage; in favor of the wife for habitual drunkenness of the husband, if not existing at the time of the marriage, within the knowledge of the wife; for pregnancy of the wife, in favor of the husband at the time of marriage without his knowledge or agency; and in favor of the wife for actual violence committed upon her by the husband, attended with danger to life or health, or when from his conduct there is reasonable apprehension of such violence. Pending suit for divorce, the court must make an allowance for the support of the wife out of the estate of the husband, having regard to the estate and the condition in life of the parties. When the divorce is granted, if the wife has no separate estate, or if it be insufficient for her maintenance, the chancellor must decree the wife an allowance out of the estate of the husband, taking into consideration the value thereof and the condition of his family; and when the divorce is for the misconduct of the husband, the allowance must be as liberal as the condition of his estate and family will permit. Divorce for the adultery of the wife, bars her dower or any distributive share in the personal estate of the husband. A divorce deprives the husband of all control over the separate estate of the wife. Upon granting the divorce, the court may give the custody of the children to either father or mother, having regard to the age and sex of the children, and to the prudence and moral character of the parents.

Arizona.—Divorce Law.—The district courts have exclusive jurisdiction of actions for divorce. No person shall be allowed to apply for a divorce who has not been a resident of the Territory for six months immediately preceding the application. Divoces may be granted from bed and board, or from the bonds of matrimony,—1st. For impotency at the time of marriage. 2d. When the female was under fourteen years of age at the date of the alleged marriage, and the alleged marriage was without the consent of her parents, guardian, etc. 3d. For adultery. 4th. For extreme cruelty. 5th. When the consent of either party to the marriage was obtained by force or fraud. 6th. In case of the conviction of either party of felony after marriage. 7. Whenever the judge who hears the cause, "decrees the case to be within the reason of the law, within the general mischief the law is intended to remedy, or within what it may be presumed would have been provided against by the legislature establishing the foregoing causes of divorce, had it foreseen the specific case and found language to meet it without including cases not within the same reason, he shall grant the divorce." S. For habitual intemperance. 9th. For willful desertion by either party for the period of one year.

Arkansas.—Divorce Law.—The grounds of divorce are impotency; willful desertion for one year without reasonable cause; where either party had a husband or wife living at the time of the marriage; where either is convicted of felony or other infamous crime; habitual drunkenness for one year; such cruel or barbarous treatment or personal indignity as shall render the condition of the applicant intolerable; and adultery subsequent to the marriage. The pleadings are not required to be sworn to, but either party may require answers under oath, to interrogatories touching any matter of property. The plaintiff must allege and prove in addition to a legal ground of divorce, first, a residence in the State for one year next before suit brought; second, that the cause of divorce occurred or existed in this State, or if out of the State, either that it was a legal cause of divorce in the State where it occurred or existed, or that the plaintiff's residence was then in this State; and third, that the cause of divorce existed or occurred within five years next before the commencement of the suit. The court may allow alimony ad interim and attorney's fees to the wife. On final judgment each party is restored to the undisposed of property which he or she brought into the marriage. The court may restore the wife to her maiden name. The court may allow the wife reasonable alimony which may be changed from time to time.

California.—Divorce Law.—Divorce may be granted in this State for the following grounds: 1st. Adultery. 2d. Extreme cruelty. 3d. Willful desertion for one year. 4th. Willful neglect for one year. 5th. Habitual intemperance for one year. 6th. Conviction of felony. Plaintiff must have been a resident of this State for six months before the suit can be brought. A defendant is served with summons as in any civil case, but no decree can be rendered by default; nor on admissions of the defendant, nor on the uncorroborated evidence of the parties. In all other respects the rules of the civil practice prevail, except that the court may allow alimony and expenses of litigation to the wife, and order the same to be paid by the husband. The court may enforce such order by imprisonment.

Colorado.—Divorce Law.—The grounds of divorce are: 1st. Natural impotence at the time of marriage. 2d. A husband or wife living at the time of marriage. 3d. Adultery by either party subsequent to the marriage. 4th. Willful desertion and absence by either party without reasonable cause for the space of one year. 5th. Willful desertion and absence by either party and departure from the State without any intention of returning. 6th. Failure of the husband, being in good bodily health, to make reasonable provision for the support of his family for the space of one year. 7th. Habitual drunkenness by either party for the space of one year. 8th. Extreme cruelty.

9th. Conviction for felony, or other infamous crime. One year's residence in the State is required of the complainant before bringing suit, except in cases where the offense complained of was committed within this State, or whilst one or both of the parties resided in this State. Where there is collusion, or where both parties are guilty of adultery, where adultery is the ground of complaint, no divorce will be granted. No divorce shall effect the legitimacy of the children of such marriage, except where the marriage shall be declared void on the ground of a prior marriage. If bill is taken as confessed, case is referred to a master; if denied, it is tried by a jury, which trial may be private.

Connecticut.—Divorce Law—Are granted for adultery; fraudulent contract; willful desertion for three years, with total neglect of duty; seven years' absence, during all of which period the absent party has not been heard from, habitual intemperance; intolerable cruelty; sentence to imprisonment for life; any infamous crime, involving a violation of conjugal duty, and punishable by imprisonment in the state prison. The proceeding is by complaint and summons to be served on the respondent. No decree of divorce will be granted at the first term, without proof of actual notice to the adverse party, nor until after ninety days from the day it is returnable. Where the adverse party resides out of this State, service may be made on such party by mail, publication, or in such other manner as the court shall direct.
If the petitioner has removed to this State from another State, not having had a former domicile of origin here, when married, such petitioner must reside here three years before bringing the petition, unless the cause of divorce shall have arisen subsequently to the removal into the State, or unless the adverse party shall have statedly resided in this State three years next before the date of the petition. After divorce either party may lawfully marry again. In granting a divorce to a married woman, the court may change her name; and may, at discretion, make an order as to the custody, care, and education of the children of the marriage. The court may assign to any woman divorced a reasonable part of the estate of her late husband, not exceeding one-third part thereof.
All divorces are a vinculo; those from bed and board are unknown in practice.

Dakota.—Divorce Law—Divorce may be granted for any of the following causes: Adultery, extreme cruelty, willful desertion, willful neglect,
habitual intemperance, conviction for felony.
Willful desertion, willful neglect, or habitual intemperance must continue for one year before either is a ground for divorce. A divorce must not be granted unless the plaintiff has, in good faith, been a resident of the Territory for ninety days next preceding the commencement of the action. A divorce must be denied when there is an unreasonable lapse of time before the commencement of the action.

Delaware.—Divorce Law—The superior court has sole cognizance of granting divorces for the following causes: 1. From the bonds of matrimony for adultery, desertion for three years, habitual drunkenness, impotency of either party at the time of marriage, extreme cruelty, a conviction after marriage of crime deemed by the laws of this State felony. 2. From bonds of matrimony, or from bed and board, at the discretion of the court, for procurement of marriage by fraud, for want of age—husband being under eighteen or wife under sixteen at the time of marriage, and such marriage not being after those ages voluntarily ratified, or for willful neglect of husband for three years to provide for his wife necessities of life suitable to her condition. The court may grant alimony to the wife pending her petition for divorce, and the necessary sum to conduct her suit, and may protect her from personal restraint. Upon divorce granted for aggression of husband, wife is restored to all her real estate, and is allowed out of her husband's real and personal estate such share as the court shall think reasonable. If for wife's aggression, the court may restore the whole or part of her real estate, and also such share of her husband's personal property as may seem reasonable. If an inhabitant of this State go into any other jurisdiction to obtain a divorce, for any cause occurring here, or for any cause which would not authorize a divorce under the laws of Delaware, a divorce so obtained shall be of no force in Delaware.

District of Columbia.—Divorce Law.

The mode of applying for a divorce is by petition specifying causes with certainty. Summons then issues for defendant to appear and answer. If writ is returned not found, and if by affidavit of disinterested witness it appears that defendant is non-resident, or has been absent from the District for six months, the court may authorize notice of pending of petition by publication. After service of summons or publication made forty days before commencement of the term, if defendant fail to answer, or does not deny facts charged in petition, court orders reference to take proofs of material facts, but never to person named by either party. Judgment cannot be rendered on default nor on admissions in defendant's answer. Facts charged in petition must be proved by other evidence. Divorce cannot be granted for cause occurring out of the District, unless applicant shall have resided in the District for two years next preceding application. Divorce from bed and board may be granted for cruelty of treatment endangering life or health; reasonable apprehension of bodily harm, willful desertion and abandonment by party complained against for uninterrupted space of three years. Divorce from bond of matrimony may be granted for causes just stated; and in cases where marriage was contracted while either party had a former husband or wife living, unless former marriage shall have been lawfully dissolved, and no restraint shall have been imposed on party contracting second marriage; when marriage was contracted during lunacy of either party, or either party was matrimonially incapacitated at time of marriage; and for adultery during marriage. The court may award alimony to wife for sustenance during pendency of petition; and where divorce is granted may award her alimony, reserve to her right of dower, and award her such property or the value thereof as she had when she was married, or such part or the value thereof as the court may deem reasonable, having regard to circumstances of husband at time of divorce. Maiden name or other previous name may, in granting divorce from bonds of marriage, be restored to wife.

Florida.—Divorce Law.—The circuit courts of this State, within their respective circuits, have exclusive cognizance of all claims and actions for divorce and alimony. No divorce from the bonds of matrimony shall be granted to any applicant unless it shall appear that such applicant has resided in the State for the space of two years prior to the time of application. Divorces from the bonds of matrimony shall be also allowed to any person, upon application to be made as in other cases of divorce, who shall have been a citizen of Florida for twelve months, whose husband or wife shall have obtained a divorce in any other State or country. By the laws of this State, no divorce can be decreed from bed and board; but whenever any divorce shall be adjudged and decreed between man and wife in the courts of the State, by virtue of the laws thereof, the same shall be from the bonds of matrimony. Causes of Divorce.—Divorces may be decreed in case the parties are within the the degrees prohibited by law, in cases where either party is naturally impotent, and in cases of adultery in either of the parties. Divorces may also be decreed where either of the parties had another wife or husband living at the time of such second or other marriage, such marriage being from the beginning null and void, and the issue of such marriage illegitimate. Divorces a vinculo matrimonii may be adjudged and decreed for extreme cruelty in either party, or for the habitual indulgence of violent and ungovernable temper, or for habitual intemperance, or for willful, obstinate, and continued desertion by either party for the term of one year. The courts have power, upon decreeing a divorce, to make a provision for the wife out of the husband's estate, suitable to the condition of the parties, and this is usually done. Alimony.—The courts of this State have jurisdiction, on application of wives for alimony against their husbands, on the husband deserting his wife for one year, or on his living in open or avowed adultery with another woman for three months, and in cases of cruel, inhuman, and barbarous treatment. In a suit by the wife for alimony, the facts arising upon the matter in issue shall be determined by a jury, and either of the afore-mentioned causes being found to exist, the court shall decree alimony out of the defendant's estate. A decree for alimony releases the wife from the control of her husband, and she may use her alimony, and acquire, use, and dispose of other property, uncontrolled by her husband.

Georgia.—Divorce Law.—Grounds of total divorce are as follows: 1. Intermarriage by persons within prohibited degrees of affinity or consanguinity; said prohibited degrees being set forth as follows, to-wit: a man shall not marry his step-mother, or mother-in-law, or widow of his uncle, or daughter-in-law, or step-daughter, or grand-daughter of his wife; nor shall a woman marry her corresponding relatives. 2. Mental incapacity at time of marriage. 3. Impotency at time of marriage. 4. Force, menace, duress, or fraud in obtaining marriage. 5. Pregnancy of the wife at time of marriage, unknown to the husband. 6. Adultery by either party after marriage. 7. Willful and continued desertion for the term of three years by either party. 8. Conviction of either party for an offense involving moral turpitude, under which he or she is sentenced to imprisonment in the penitentiary for the term of two years or longer. 9. Cruel treatment, or habitual intoxication by either party. In such cases, it is in the discretion of the jury to grant either a total or partial divorce. Divorce cases shall be tried in the county where the defendant resides, if a resident of this State. The action for divorce shall be by petition and process, as in ordinary suits, filed and served as in equity cases, and tried in the county where the defendant resides, if a resident of this State; if not, in the county where the plaintiff resides; but if the defendant be a non-resident of this State, service shall be perfected by publication in any public gazette of this State (under the direction of the court) once a month for four months. Must be two verdicts at different terms of the court, for total divorce. The division of property, when divorce is granted, is determined by the jury rendering the final verdict in the case, according to the condition of the husband and the sources from which the property came into the coverture.

Idaho.—Divorce Laws.—Divorces may be granted, upon application of the injured party, for the following causes: 1. For natural impotence existing at the time of marriage. 2. When the female at the time of marriage was under the age of fourteen, and such marriage was without the consent of her parents, guardian, or other person having the legal custody of her person; and when such marriage is not voluntarily ratified after attaining the age of fourteen. 3. For adultery, without the collusion of the parties, unless the parties live and cohabit together as man and wife after knowledge of the act of adultery complained of. 4. For extreme cruelty in either party or for habitual intemperance for the period of two years, or for willful desertion by either party for one year, or for willful neglect on the part of the husband to provide for his wife the common necessities of life—having the ability—for the period of two years. 5. When the consent of either of the parties was obtained by force or fraud. 6. In case of the conviction of either party for a felony, after marriage, when the punishment is not less than two years' imprisonment. The plaintiff must reside in the Territory at least six months before commencing suit. A divorce cannot be granted by default, nor upon the admission of either party, but only on proof of the facts alleged.

life of the other by poison or other means showing malice, extreme and repeated cruelty, or conviction of felony or other infamous crime. The legitimacy of children is not affected unless the marriage is declared void on the ground of a prior marriage. The complainant is required to be a resident of the State for one year, unless the injury complained of was committed within, or while one or both of the parties resided in this State. The action must be brought in the county where the plaintiff resides, and summons may issue to any other county in the State. Non-resident defendants may be brought into court by publication for four successive weeks, the first being forty days before the return day of the summons; which publication is had upon affidavit stating the place of residence of the defendant, or that the same is unknown; and if the residence is known, a copy of the published notice is required to be mailed to the defendant; and whenever the judge is satisfied that the interests of the defendant require it, the court may order such additional notice as equity may seem to require. The decree may be granted on the testimony of the complainant alone, if no defense is interposed; but the examination of witnesses is now required to be had in open court, and the judge is required to be satisfied that all proper means have been taken to notify the defendant, and that the cause of divorce has been fully proven by reliable witnesses. During the pendency of the suit the court may require the husband to pay the wife such sum as may enable her to maintain or defend the suit; and alimony when it shall be just and equitable. And in the final decree the court may make such order regarding alimony and maintenance of the wife and the care, custody, and support of the children, as from the the circumstances of the parties and the nature of the case shall be fit, reasonable, and just; and may require security from the husband for such alimony or maintenance, and make alterations in the allowance thereof from time to time. When a divorce is decreed to the wife, the court may allow her to take her maiden name. The homestead may be disposed of by the court according to the equities of the case.

Indiana.—Divorce Law.—A divorce may be decreed by the superior or circuit court, upon the application of the injured party, for the following causes, and no other: 1st, adultery, (except as below); 2d, impotency existing at time of marriage; 3d, abandonment for two years; 4th, cruel and inhuman treatment of either party by the other; 5th, habitual drunkenness of either party; 6th, failure of the husband to make reasonable provision for his family for a period of two years; 7th, the conviction, subsequent to the marriage, in any country, of either party, of an infamous crime. When adultery is the alleged cause, the courts are prohibited from granting a divorce if the adultery is the result of connivance or consent of the parties; if there has been voluntary cohabitation after knowledge of the fact; if there has been a lapse of two years after discovery before filing the petition; or if the party charging adultery has been guilty of the same offence. petition may be filed except by a person who has been a bona fide resident of the State for two years, and of the county at the time of, and for at least six months immediately preceding the filing of such petition; which residence shall be duly proven by such petitioner to the satisfaction of the court trying the same, by at least two witnesses who are resident freeholders of the State. The plaintiff shall, with his petition, file an affidavit duly sworn and subscribed, stating the time he has been a resident of the State, with the place, town, city, or township he has resided in for the previous two years, and also stating occupation. The plaintiff may require an answer under oath to his petition. No decree, however, can be rendered on default without proof. The wife may petition in her own name. If it appear by the affidavit of a disinterested person, or return of the sheriff, that the defendant is not a resident of the State, the clerk may give notice of the pendency of the suit, by publication, for three successive weeks, in a weekly newspaper of general circulation published in the county. When notice is given by publication, before the same is given the plaintiff shall file affidavit with the clerk, stating therein the residence of defendant, if it be known to plaintiff, or, if unknown, shall so state. In case the residence is stated, the clerk is required to forward by mail to defendant a number of the paper containing the notice, with the notice marked. If proof be made of such publication thirty days before the first day of the term, or the defendant be served with process ten days before the first day of the term, the case stands for trial. Parties against whom a judgment of divorce shall hereafter be rendered, without other notice than publication in a newspaper, may, at any time within two years after the rendition of such judgment, have the same opened and be allowed to defend as well on the granting of the divorce as in relation to the allowance of alimony and the disposition of property; and until the expiration of said two years it shall not be lawful for the party obtaining such divorce to marry again, which shall be stated in the decree of the court. It may be opened at any time, so far as relates to care, support, and custody of the children. All marriages prohibited by law on account of consanguinity, affinity, difference of color, or where either party thereto has a former wife or husband living, if solemnized within this State, are void without any legal proceedings, but the issue of a marriage, void on account of consanguinity, affinity, or difference of color, shall be deemed to be legitimate. When either of the parties to a marriage void, because a former marriage exists undissolved, shall have contracted such marriage in the reasonable belief that such disability did not exist, the issue of such marriage begotten before the discovery of such disability by such innocent party shall be deemed legitimate.

dent of this State served by personal service, the petition for divorce, in addition to the facts on account of which the plaintiff claims the relief sought, must state that the plaintiff has been for the last year a resident of the State, specifying the town and county in which he has so resided, and the entire length of his residence therein, after deducting all absences from the State; that he is now a resident thereof; that such residence has been in good faith and not for the purpose of obtaining a divorce only; and it must in all cases state that the application is made in good faith and for the purposes set forth in the petition. The petition must be verified by the oath of the plaintiff. If the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Iowa, or his residence is unknown, service of notice of suit may be made by publication. Divorces from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed against the husband for the following causes: 1st, when he has committed adultery subsequent to the marriage; 2d, when he willfully deserts his wife and absents himself without a reasonable cause for the space of two years; 3d, when he is convicted of felony after his marriage; 4th, when, after marriage, he becomes addicted to habitual drunkenness; 5th, when he is guilty of such inhuman treatment as to endanger the life of his wife. The husband may obtain a divorce from his wife for like cause, and also when the wife at the time of the marriage was pregnant by another than her husband, unless such husband have an illegitimate child or children then living, which was unknown to the wife at the time of their marriage. When a divorce is decreed, the court may make such order in relation to the children and property of the parties, and the maintenance of the wife as shall be right and proper; and the guilty party forfeits all rights acquired by the marriage. Marriages may be annulled for the following causes: 1st, where marriage between the parties is prohibited by law; 2d, where either party was impotent at the time of marriage; 3d, where either party had a husband or wife living at the time of the marriage; provided they have not lived and cohabited together after the death of the former husband or wife, in which case such marriage shall be deemed valid; 4th, where either party was insane or idiotic at the time of the marriage. 9

Kansas.—Divorce Law.—Divorces are only granted by district court for the following causes; former marriages; one year's abandonment; adultery; impotency; pregnancy of wife by other than her husband; extreme cruelty; fraudulent contract; habitual drunkenness; gross neglect of duty; conviction of felony. The plaintiff must have resided in the State one year, and sue in county of residence, by petition under oath. In case of service by publication, a certified copy of petition and notice, within three days after first publication, must be mailed to the defendant; and such service must be proved by affidavit, or the plaintiff must make affidavit that the residence of the defendant is unknown. The residence of the plaintiff gives jurisdiction; each party may testify and depositions may be used; temporary alimony pendente lite may be allowed by the court or judge in vacation. The wife's name may be changed and custody of children awarded her. A decree of alimony has the same effect, and may be enforced as any other money judgment. Divorce is no bar to future marriage. But by the law of 1881, proceedings to reverse decree of divorce must be commenced within six months after its rendition, during which time it is bigamy for either party to marry. Alimony may be sued for without divorce.

Kentucky.—Divorce Law.—Both husband and wife may obtain a divorce for: 1. Such impotency or malformation as prevents sexual intercourse. 2. Living separate without cohabitation for five years next before the application. Divorce may be granted to party not in fault, for: 1. Abandonment by one party of the other for one year. 2. Living in adultery with another man or woman. 3. Condemnation for felony, in or out of this State. 4. Concealment from the other party of any loathsome disease existing at the time of marriage, or contracting such afterwards. 5. Force, duress, or fraud in obtaining the marriage. 6. Uniting with any religious society requiring a renunciation of the marriage covenant, or forbidding cohabitation. Also to the wife when not in fault, for: 1. Confirmed habits of drunkenness on the part of the husband, of not less than one year's duration, accompanied with a wasting of his estate, and without any suitable provision for the maintenance of his wife and children. 2. Habitually behaving toward her by the husband, for not less than six months, in such cruel and inhuman manner as to indicate a settled aversion to her and to destroy permanently her peace and happiness. 3. Such cruel beating, or injury, or attempt at injury, of the wife by the husband, as indicates an outrageous and ungovernable temper, and probable danger to her life, or great bodily injury from her remaining with him. Also to the husband for: 1. Where wife is pregnant by another man, without husband's knowledge at the time of marriage. 2. Adultery, or such lewd, lascivious behavior on wife's part as proves her to be unchaste, without actual proof of an act of adultery. 3. Habitual drunkenness of the wife of not less than one year's duration when husband is not in like fault. Suit must be brought in the county where the wife usually resides, if she has a residence in the State; if not, then in the county of the husband's residence and no suit can be brought until after a year's continuous residence in this State next before its institution. Suit must be brought within five years from act complained of. Nor unless the party complaining had an actual residence in the State at the time of the doing of the act complained of, shall a divorce be granted for anything done out of the State, unless it was also a cause for divorce by the law of the country where the act was done. Judgment of divorce authorizes either party to marry again. Courts having general equitable jurisdiction may grant divorces. No jury trial is permitted. Upon decree of divorce parties are restored to such property as either obtained from the other before or during the marriage, in consideration or by reason thereof. If no sufficient estate of her own, wife is entitled to such allowance out of her husband's as is equitable.

Louisiana.—Divorce Law.—Married persons may reciprocally claim a separation from bed and board, and divorce, on account of habitual intemperance, excess, cruel treatment or outrages of one of them towards the other, if such habitual intemperance, or such ill-treatment, is of such a nature as to render their living together insupportable, and when the husband or wife may have been condemned to an infamous punishment, or guilty of adultery; or on account of public defamation, abandonment, attempts against the life of the other, or when the husband or wife has been charged with an infamous offense, and shall have fled from justice. No divorce will be granted unless a judgment of separation from bed and board shall have been rendered between the parties, and one year shall have expired from the date of the judgment of separation from bed and board, and no reconciliation shall have taken place, except in the cases where the husband or wife may have been sentenced to an infamous punishment, or guilty of adultery. A judgment of divorce carries with it a dissolution of the community of acquets and gains; each spouse taking back the separate property that he or she brought into the marriage, and one half of the community after the payment of the debts. Suits for separation of property and divorce must be brought before the district courts.

Maine.—Divorce Law.—Divorce may be granted by any judge of the supreme judicial court if he deems it reasonable and proper, conducive to domestic harmony, and consistent with the peace and morality of society, and for adultery, desertion, cruelty, and other specific causes, if parties were married here, cohabited here after marriage, or libellant lived here when cause accrued, or had resided here in good faith for one year before action was begun. Either party may testify and may marry again. Three years desertion gives an absolute right to divorce. If there is adultery on both sides, or collusion, no divorce shall be granted. Pending suit the court may order husband to pay allowance for the wife's expenses of prosecution or defense, and for support, and on final decree may award alimony or a specific sum in lieu thereof. The wife has dower if decree is for husband's fault. Divorce is granted on a libel filed in clerk's office, or inserted as a declaration in a writ of attachment. A jury may be called by either party. The court has power to decree custody of minor children. A review may be granted within three years, if either party has married again. Divorce obtained elsewhere for causes happening here while parties live here, which would not be sufficient in this State, are void here; other foreign divorces are valid. Divorces from bed and board are provided for. Suits may be brought for a decree of nullity of marriage.

Maryland.—Divorce Law.—Divorce is within the jurisdiction of courts of equity. Marriages are dissolved a vinculo matrimonii for the canonical causes of impediment existing previous to marriage; for adultery; abandonment for three years; for fornication by wife before marriage; the court may decree that the guilty party shall not marry during life-time of the other. Divorces a mensa et thoro are decreed for vicious conduct, cruelty of treatment, abandonment, and desertion. The court has power to award to the wife the property she had when married, or the value of the same, and also to provide for the custody and guardianship of the children. The court will award alimony when a divorce is decreed. Alimony pendente lite, or apart from divorce, is also allowed.

Massachusetts.—Divorce Law.—Divorces may be granted for any of the causes mentioned below, if the libellant has been an inhabitant of this State for three years next preceding the libel and the parties were inhabitants of the State at the time of their marriage, or if the libellant has resided in this State five years next preceding the libel; otherwise the parties must have lived together as husband and wife in this State; or if the cause occurred elsewhere, they must prior thereto have lived together as husband and wife in this State, and one of them must have lived here when the cause occurred. The libel cannot be signed by attorney. Divorces from the bond of matrimony may be granted for adultery, impotency, extreme cruelty, utter desertion for three consecutive years next preceding the libel; gross and confirmed habits of intoxication; cruel and abusive treatment; gross, or wanton and cruel refusal or neglect of husband to maintain his wife, if of sufficient ability to do so; for separating without consent from the other and uniting for three years with any religious society that believes the husband and wife is unlawful; sentence to confinement at hard labor for five years or more in the State prison, jail, or house of correction. No divorce from bed and board merely is now decreed. All decrees of divorce shall in the first instance be decrees nisi, to become absolute after the expiration of six months from the entry thereof, on application of either party to the court or any justice thereof, in term time or vacation. Upon a divorce for adultery or imprisonment of husband, the wife is entitled to dower; otherwise not, except when the husband dies after divorce nisi granted on her libel and before it is made absolute. Upon a divorce for adultery in the wife the decree does not affect her title to her real or personal estate for her life, except that support for minor children may be decreed therefrom. Upon a divorce for other causes than adultery in the wife, she is entitled to the possession of her real estate, and such part of her personal property in her husband's possession as the court may decree. Alimony may be decreed either to husband or wife. And the husband's property may be attached on the libel of the wife. After divorce from the bond of matrimony either party may marry again, except that the party against whom the divorce was granted shall not marry within two years from the entry of the final decree.

between them is thereby absolutely dissolved without any decree of divorce or other process, and no subsequent pardon will restore him or her to conjugal rights. A divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed by the circuit court of the county where the parties or one of them reside, or by the court of chancery on the application by bill or petition of the aggrieved party in the following cases: 1. When adultery has been committed by-husband or wife. 2. When one of the parties was physically incompetent at the time of the marriage. 3. When one of the parties has been sentenced to imprisonment in any prison, jail, or house of correction for three years or more and no pardon granted to the person so sentenced after a divorce for that cause, restores such party to his or her conjugal rights. 4. When either party shall desert the other for the term of two years. 5. When the husband or wife has become an habitual drunkard. 6. And the circuit courts may in the discretion upon application, as in other cases, divorce from the bonds of matrimony any party who is a resident of this State and whose husband or wife shall have obtained a divorce in any other State. The courts also have power to divorce from bed and board forever, or for a limited time, for the cause of extreme cruelty, whether from personal violence, desertion, or otherwise, and also on complaint of the wife when the husband is of sufficient ability to provide a suitable maintenance for the wife, but shall grossly or wantonly and cruelly refuse or neglect so to do. In either of the last mentioned cases, if the circumstances of the case are such that it seems proper, the court may grant a divorce from the bonds of matrimony. If persons who are under the age of consent marry and separate during such nonage, and not cohabit together afterwards, or if the consent of one was obtained through force or fraud, and they shall separate and not voluntarily cohabit afterwards, the marriage is void without any decree or proceeding. When the marriage is supposed to be void, or its validity is doubted, suits may be instituted for annulling the same, or in such cases either party claiming the marriage to be legal may institute proceedings to have the same decreed valid. In all cases the court has power, both during pendency of the suit or by final decree, to make such order as it shall deem proper for the care, custody, and maintenance of the minor children of the marriage. In case of divorce or decree of nullity for any cause, except the adultery of the wife or when the husband has been imprisoned for life, and in cases of divorce from bed and board, the wife takes her real estate as upon the death of the husband, and the court has power to restore to the wife in the above cases the personal property which came to the husband by the marriage, or may award the value thereof in money; and in the preceding cases, or where the divorce is on account of adultery by the husband, and the award above referred to is insufficient for her support and that of the children of the marriage committed to her, the husband may be compelled to pay alimony in addition. If the marriage is dissolved because the husband is sentenced to imprisonment for life or for three years or more by a decree—or for adultery, or for habitual drunkenness, the wife takes dower in his lands, but in no other case.

Minnesota.—Divorce Law.—Limited.—Separation from bed and board forever, or for a limited time, may be decreed by district court, on complaint of a married woman, in the following cases: 1. When the husband and wife are inhabitants of this State. 2. When the marriage was solemnized in this State, and the wife is an actual resident at time of exhibiting her complaint. 3. When marriage shall have taken place out of this State, and parties have been inhabitants of the State for one year, and the wife is an actual resident at time of exhibiting her complaint. Such separation may be decreed for following causes: 1. Cruel and inhuman treatment. 2. Such conduct on part of husband as may render it unsafe or improper for wife to cohabit with him. 3. Abandonment of wife by the husband, and his refusal or neglect to provide for her. Proceedings same as in absolute divorce. Absolute.—Granted by district court on suit brought in county where either party resides, for either of the following causes: 1. Adultery. 2. Impotency. 3. Cruel and inhuman treatment. 4. Sentence of imprisonment in state prison subsequent to marriage. 5. Willful desertion for three years. 6. Habitual drunkenness for one year immediately preceding the filing of complaint. Plaintiff must be a resident of State for one year, except in cases of adultery committed while resident of the State. Jurisdiction is obtained by personal service of summons and complaint on defendant, and if service is made out of State, it may be proved by affidavit of person making the same. If personal service cannot well be made, the court may order publication of summons as in other cases. The court exercises its discretion as to who shall have custody of children, both while suit is pending and after divorce. When granted, wife is entitled to immediate possession of her real property, unless her adultery is cause of divorce; and the court may require husband to restore personal property received from her. Alimony may be decreed to wife when her adultery is not the cause of divorce; but the aggregate allowance made to wife shall not exceed one third part of personal estate of the husband and the value of her dower in his real estate.

Mississippi.—Divorce Law.—Divorces may be granted for the following reasons: That the parties are within the degrees prohibited by law; that either is naturally impotent; for adultery; for sentence to the penitentiary, if not pardoned before sent there; for willful, continued and obstinate desertion during the space of two years; for habitual drunkenness; for insanity or idiocy at the time of marriage; for habitual cruel and inhuman treatment, marked by personal violence, and for bigamy. Collusion or the commission of the act complained of for the purpose of divorce will prevent the grant. No divorce except the last renders the children illegitimate. Divorces are decreed upon bill filed in the chancery court, and proof of the charge made pro confesso cannot be taken. Complainant must be a resident of the State, and must have resided there for at least one year before filing of the bill. On decreeing divorce, the court can fix proper alimony for the wife, and require sureties for its payment; and may direct the disposition and maintenance of the children. All divorces are a vinculo.

Missouri.—Divorce Law.—Divorce may be obtained by any person who has resided one year in this State, and can establish that defendant, 1st, was impotent at the time of the marriage and still is; or, 2d, had a wife or husband living at the time of marriage; or, 3d, has committed adultery since the marriage; or, 4th, has absented himself or herself without a reasonable cause for the space of one year; or, 5th, during the marriage has been convicted of a felony or infamous crime, or, 6th, has during the marriage been addicted to habitual drunkenness for one year; or, 7th, has been guilty of such cruel and barbarous treatment as to endanger the life of the other; or, 8th, has offered such indignities to the other as to render his or her condition intolerable; or, 9th, that the husband is a vagrant; or, 10th, that he has previous to the marriage been convicted of a felony or other infamous crime anywhere; or, 11th, that at the time of the marriage and without the husband's knowledge the wife was pregnant by some other man. Suits for divorce are in the ordinary form. They are not tried by a jury. If defendant is a non-resident he or she can be served with notice of the suit by publication, or by personal service of process at the place of residence of defendant one month before the return day of the writ in the case.

Nebraska.—Divorce Law.—Divorce may be decreed by the district court of the county where one of the parties resides, when the husband or wife has committed adultery, has willfully abandoned the other without just cause for two years, has become an habitual drunkard, was physically incompetent at the time of the marriage, or has been sentenced to imprisonment for three years or more, or been guilty of extreme cruelty; also wife may obtain divorce when husband, being of sufficient ability to suitably maintain her, grossly or wantonly and cruelly refuses or neglects so to do. Plaintiff shall have resided in the county six months before commencing suit, except, when marriage was in this State, plaintiff has resided here from then till commencing action. When divorce is for husband's imprisonment, adultery, misconduct, or drunkenness, the wife shall be entitled to dower in his lands, the same as if he were dead. Court may decree alimony.

New Hampshire.—Divorce Law.—Divorces are decreed in favor of the innocent party, for impotency, adultery, extreme cruelty, conviction of crime punishable in this State with imprisonment for more than one year, and actual imprisonment under such conviction; treatment seriously injuring health; treatment endangering reason; absence for three years without being heard of; habitual drunkenness for three years together; joining any religious sect that believes the relation of husband and wife unlawful, and refusal to cohabit for six months together; when the husband has willingly absented himself from the wife for three years together, making no provision for her; when the wife has willingly absented herself from her husband, without his consent; for three years together; when the wife has gone to reside out of the State, and remained absent and separate from her husband ten years together; without his consent, and without claiming marital rights; when the wife of any alien or citizen of another State, living separate, has resided in this State three years together, the husband having left the United States intending to become a citizen of another country, and not having during that period come into this State and claimed his marital rights, and not having made provision for the wife's support. No divorce will be granted for any cause, save adultery, unless the cause is in existence at the time of filing the petition. The petition or libel should be filed in the office of the clerk of the court in the county where one of the parties reside; and such notice of the pendency thereof given as the court may order. The petition may be filed in vacation or term time, may be heard in open court or in chambers, and upon depositions or oral evidence. The libel should be signed by the libellant, and set forth the cause of divorce. The court, upon application and notice, may revise and modify any order made; or make new ones.

New Jersey.—Divorce Law.—The court of chancery has jurisdiction of all causes of divorce, and of alimony or maintenance, provided the parties, complainant and defendant, or either of them, were or shall be inhabitants of this State at the time of the injury, desertion, or neglect complained of, or where the marriage has taken place within the State, and the complainant has been an actual resident in this State at the time of the injury, desertion, or neglect, and at the time of exhibiting the bill; or where the adultery was committed in this State, and the parties, or either of them, reside in this State at the time of exhibiting the bill; or where the complainant or defendant is a resident of this State at the time of filing the bill, and the complainant or defendant has been a resident of this State for the term of three years, during which the desertion has continued. The complainant must annex to his bill an affidavit that it is not exhibited by any collusion with the defendant. Divorce a vinculo will be decreed where either party had another husband or wife living at the time of a second marriage. Such marriage is void. Such divorce will also be decreed, in case the parties to a marriage are within the prohibited degrees for adultery in one party alone, or for desertion for three years. Divorce a mensa et thoro is granted for extreme cruelty in either party.

New York.—Divorce Law.—A decree of nullity of marriage may be obtained by the woman, where she was under fourteen years of age at the time of the marriage, and marriage took place without consent of parent or guardian and was not followed by cohabitation, and not ratified after plaintiff attained age of fourteen. It may be obtained by husband or wife for either of the following causes existing at the time of marriage; want of age, former husband or wife living, idiocy, lunacy, consent obtained by force, duress, or fraud, incurable and physical incapacity. Absolute divorces are granted only for adultery, where both parties were residents of the State where offense was committed or were married in this State, or where plaintiff resided in this State when offense was committed and action commenced; or when offense was committed in this State and injured party resided here when action was commenced. Plaintiff may remarry but not defendant until plaintiff's death, unless decree of divorce is modified on satisfactory proof that five years have elapsed since its rendition, that the complainant has remarried, and that defendant's conduct has been uniformly good. Separations are decreed for inhuman treatment, abandonment, and neglect, and conduct rendering it unsafe and improper for defendant to cohabit with plaintiff.

North Carolina.—Divorce Law.—Marriages may be dissolved and the parties thereto divorced from the bonds of matrimony, on application of the injured party to the superior court, made as by law provided, in the following cases: First, if either party shall separate from the other and live in adultery; second, if the wife shall commit adultery; third, if either party at the time of the marriage was and is still naturally impotent; fourth, if the wife at the time of marriage be pregnant and the husband be ignorant of the fact of such pregnancy, and be not the father of the child with which the wife was pregnant at the time of the marriage. The superior courts may grant divorce from bed and board, on application of the party injured, made as provided by law in the following cases: First, if either party shall abandon his or her family; or second, shall maliciously turn the other out of doors; or third, shall by cruel or barbarous treatment endanger the life of the other; or fourth, shall offer such indignities to the person of the other as to render his or her condition intolerable, and life burdensome; or fifth, shall become an habitual drunkard. In cases of divorce from bed and board, alimony may be granted, not exceeding the third of the annual income.

Ohio.—Divorce Law.—The court of common pleas may grant divorces for the following causes: 1. That either party had a husband or wife living at the time of the marriage from which the divorce is sought. 2. Willful absence of either party from the other for three years. 3. Adultery. 4. Impotency. 5. Extreme cruelty. 6. Fraudulent contract. 7. Any gross neglect of duty. 8. Habitual drunkenness for three years. 9. The imprisonment of either party in the penitentiary under sentence thereto; but the petition for divorce under this clause must be filed during the imprisonment of the adverse party. 10. The procurement of a divorce without the State, by a husband or wife, by virtue of which the party who procured it is released from the obligations of the marriage, while the same remain binding upon the other party. When a divorce is granted by reason of the aggression of the husband, the wife must, by force of the judgment of divorce, be restored to her real estate not previously disposed of, and, if she so desires, the court must restore to her any name she had before such marriage, and she must be allowed such alimony out of her husband's real and personal property as the court shall deem reasonable, having due regard to the property which came to him by marriage, and the value of his estate at the time of the divorce; and if the wife survives her husband, she will be entitled to dower the same as she would had no divorce been granted. The court may grant alimony to the wife for her sustenance and expense during the suit, and an allowance to her for the support of minor children dependent upon the husband for support, and not provided for by him during the pendency of an action for divorce, or for alimony alone; and any person or corporation having possession of or claiming an interest in the property of the husband, out of which the wife seeks alimony allowed her, may be made a party defendant to the action; and the court may, if necessary, enjoin the husband from so disposing of or encumbering his property as to defeat the wife in obtaining alimony; and the wife can sell and assign her order for alimony or allowance after the same is made. The plaintiff, except in an action for alimony alone, must have been a resident of the State at least one year before filing the petition; all actions for divorce, or for alimony, must be brought in the county where the plaintiff has a bona fide residence at the time of filing the petition, or in the county where the cause of action arose; and the court must hear and determine the same, whether the marriage took place or the cause of divorce occurred within or without the State. When the wife files her petition for a divorce, or for alimony, the residence of her husband shall not be so construed as to preclude her from the provisions of this law. Jurisdiction is acquired, when the defendant is a resident of the State, by service of the summons, together with a copy of the petition, on the defendant in the county in which he resides, at least six weeks before the hearing of the cause. But when the defendant is not a resident of the State, or his residence is unknown, notice of the pendency of the action must be given by publication as in other cases; and unless it be made to appear to the court, by affidavit or otherwise, that his residence is unknown to the plaintiff, or could not with reasonable diligence be ascertained, a summons and a copy of the petition must forthwith be deposited in the post-office, directed to the defendant at his place of residence. The cause may be heard and decided at anytime after the expiration of six weeks from the service of summons, or the first publication of notice. Courts have held that the gross neglect of duty must have continued for three years.

Oregon.—Divorce Law.—A dissolution of the marriage contract may be declared at the suit of the injured party, for either of the following causes: 1st, impotency; 2d, adultery unforgiven; 3d, conviction of felony; 4th, habitual gross drunkenness contracted since the marriage, and continuing for two years before suit; 5th, willful desertion for the period of three years; 6th, cruel and inhuman treatment, or personal indignities rendering life burdensome. In a suit for the dissolution of the marriage contract, the plaintiff therein must be an inhabitant of the State at the commencement of the suit, and for one year prior thereto, which residence shall be sufficient to give the court jurisdiction, without regard to the place where marriage was solemnized, or the cause of suit arose. Whenever a marriage shall be declared void or dissolved, the party at whose prayer such decree shall be made, shall, in all cases, be entitled to the undivided third part in his or her individual right, in fee, of the whole of the real estate owned by the other at the time of such decree, in addition to the further decree for maintenance.

Pennsylvania.—Divorce Law.—A vinculo matrimonii may be decreed by the courts of common pleas, for 1. Incapacity of procreation. 2.
Former marriage still subsisting. 3. Adultery. 4.
Willful desertion, without reasonable cause, for two years. 5. Where a husband has by cruel treatment endangered his wife's life, or offered such indignities to her person as to render her condition intolerable and life burdensome, and thereby forced her to withdraw from his house and family. 6.
Incestuous marriages are void and divorce may be decreed. 7. Where the marriage was procured by fraud, force, or coercion, and not subsequently confirmed. 8. Where either party has been sentenced to imprisonment for a term exceeding two years on conviction for felony. 9. Where a wife has by cruel and barbarous treatment rendered the condition of her husband intolerable, or life burdensome. An applicant for divorce must be a citizen, and have resided in the State one year prior to filing libel. The causes for the divorce on which the application is founded need not have taken place in this State. In suits for divorce for the cause of adultery, the divorce will not be decreed if libellant has been also guilty, or if, after knowledge of defendant's guilt, he or she has condoned it, or if the husband (libellant) connived at the guilt of his wife. A divorce for adultery does not give the respondent the right to marry
the particeps criminis, but otherwise both parties are free to marry again. A woman divorced for adultery cannot devise or convey her real estate if she afterwards openly cohabits with her particeps criminis. Divorce may be decreed from bed and board on complaint of wife of barbarous treatment by her husband, in which case alimony is allowed to the wife not exceeding the third part of the husband's income. No provision exists for division of property in case of divorce. The parties in divorce suits may testify in certain cases. By the new constitution the legislature is forbidden to pass any special law granting divorces. The respondent may call for a bill of particulars of the cause of action at any time during suit. Where both parties are domiciled in Pennsylvania and the injured party removes, he or she must seek redress here, if the defendant remains here. A divorce obtained in another State under such circumstances is not valid in Pennsylvania, although notice of the proceeding be actually given to the defendant.

Rhode Island.—Divorce Law.—The supreme court may, upon petition of a "domiciled inhabitant of the State," who has resided one year therein, grant a divorce or separate maintenance for either of the following causes: Marriage originally void, or voidable by law; when party is for crime deemed to be civilly dead, (i. e. convicted of murder or arson), or from absence or other circumstances may be presumed to be naturally dead; impotency, adultery, extreme cruelty, willful desertion for five years (or for a shorter period, in the discretion of the court), continued drunkenness; neglect or refusal of husband to provide necessities for subsistence of wife, and other gross misbehavior and wickedness repugnant to and in violation of the marriage covenant. Notice is regulated by statute, personal notice being required when possible. The court has full power to control the custody of children, and to allow the wife obtaining a divorce alimony not exceeding one half the husband's personal estate, and the use of one half of his real estate. The wife may also have the use of her separate estate, freed from any control of the husband.

South Carolina.—Divorce Law.—All laws permitting divorce for any cause are repealed.

Tennessee.—Divorce Law.—The following shall be causes of divorce from the bonds of matrimony: 1. That either party at the time of the contract was and still is naturally impotent and incapable of procreation. 2. That either party has knowingly entered into a second marriage, in violation of a previous marriage still subsisting. 3. That either party has committed adultery. 4. Willful or malicious desertion or absence of either party, without a reasonable cause, for two whole years. 5. Being convicted of any crime which, by the laws of the State, renders the party infamous. 6. Being convicted of a crime, which by the laws of the State, is declared to be a felony, and sentenced to confinement in the penitentiary. 7. That either party has attempted the life of the other, by poison or any other means showing malice. 8. Refusal, on part of a wife to remove with her husband to this State, without a reasonable cause and willfully absenting herself from him for two years. 9. That the woman was pregnant at the time of the marriage, by another person, without the knowledge of the husband. Habitual drunkenness of either party shall be a cause of divorce from the bonds of matrimony, when the husband or wife have contracted the habit of drunkenness after marriage. The following shall be causes of divorce from bed and board or from the bonds of matrimony, at the discretion of the court: 1. That the husband is guilty of such cruel and inhuman treatment or conduct towards his wife as renders it unsafe and improper for her to cohabit with him and be under his dominion and control. 2. That he has offered such indignities to her person as to render her condition intolerable and thereby forced her to withdraw. 3. That he has abandoned her, or turned her out of doors, and refused or neglected to provide for her. A divorce may be granted for any of the aforesaid causes, though the acts complained of were committed out of the State, or the petitioner resided out of the State at the time; no matter where the other party resided, if the petitioner has resided in this State two years next preceeding the filing of the petition. The bill may be filed in the proper person and name of the complainant, in the circuit or chancery court of the county or district in which the defendant resides or is found, if a resident; but if a non-resident, or convict, then in the county where the applicant resides. Persons filing a bill for divorce may file the same in the county where said parties resided at the time of their separation.

Texas.—Divorce Law.—Divorces may be granted by district courts in the following cases: Natural or incurable impotency of body at time of entering into marriage contract, or any other impediment that renders such contract void. In favor of the husband, where his wife shall have been taken in adultery, or where she shall have voluntarily left his bed and board for the space of three years, with intention of abandonment; in favor of the wife, where the husband shall have left her for three years, with intention of abandonment, or where he shall have abandoned her and lived in adultery with another woman; and where either the husband or wife is guilty of excesses, cruel treatment, or outrage towards the other, if such ill-treatment is of such a nature as to render their living together insupportable. Where either husband or wife has been convicted of felony after marriage and confined in State prison; the conviction not having been had on testimony of plaintiff, and suit not brought till twelve months after conviction. Where divorces are decreed, the court exercises very general jurisdiction over the property and children, but cannot compel divestiture of title to real estate. To give jurisdiction, the petitioner must be an actual inhabitant of the State, and a resident in the county where the suit is brought six months.

Utah.—Divorce Law.—A bona fide residence of a year is required within a county within the jurisdiction of the court. Divorces are granted for the following causes: Impotency, adultery, willful desertion for more than a year, willful neglect to provide for wife the common necessities of life, habitual drunkenness, conviction for a felony, extreme cruelty. No decree in divorce shall be granted upon default or otherwise except upon legal testimony taken in the cause. The guilty party forfeits all rights acquired by marriage. Alimony and an allowance for maintenance of children may be awarded in all cases. Children ten years of age may select the parent to which they will attach themselves. All orders made by the court respecting the distribution of the property and control of the children are subject to modification at any time by the court.

Vermont.—Divorce Law.—Divorces from the bond of matrimony may be granted for adultery in either party, or when either of them is sentenced to confinement to hard labor in the state prison for life, or for three years or more, and is actually confined at the time; for intolerable severity in either of the parties, or when either has been absent seven years and not heard of during that time, or for willful desertion for three consecutive years. If the husband, being of sufficient pecuniary ability to provide suitable maintenance for his wife, shall without cause grossly or wantonly and cruelly refuse or neglect so to do, she may obtain a divorce. Divorces may be granted for adultery, or intolerable severity, or willful desertion for three years, notwithstanding such causes first happened while the parties were residing in another State or country, provided the party petitioning shall have resided in this State two years after the first accruing of either of said causes, and within the county where such petition is preferred one full year next previous to the term of court at which the petition is presented. No divorce can be granted for any cause if the parties have never lived together as husband and wife in this State, nor unless the libellant has resided in this State one full year next preceding the filing of the libel in court. No divorce can be granted for any cause which has accrued in any other State or country, unless the parties had, before such caused accrued, lived together as husband and wife in this State. No divorce can be decreed for any caused which has accrued in any other State or country, unless one of the parties was then living in this State. It is not lawful for any petitionee in any divorce proceedings, in which a divorce is granted, to again marry any person other than the petitioner, for the space of three years next after the granting of such divorce; but this provision does not apply after the death of the petitioner. Any person violating this last provision, or living in this State under such forbidden marriage relation within said three years, is punishable by imprisonment at hard labor in the state prison for not less than one year nor more than five years. The petition must be preferred and tried in the county court of the county in which the parties, or one of them, live. The cause is tried by the judges of the county court without a jury, and the testimony must be given orally, except that depositions may be taken and used in the same manner and for the same causes as is provided by law in other cases. The parties are not allowed to testify except in cases where the cause of divorce alleged is intolerable severity, or willful desertion. No argument is usually allowed on questions of fact in divorce cases.

Virginia.—Divorce Law.—Divorces from the bond of matrimony may be decreed because of consanguinity or affinity; for adultery; natural or incurable impotency of body existing at the time of entering into the matrimonial contract; when the marriage was solemnized when either of the parties was insane; where either of the parties is sentenced to confinement in the penitentiary (and no pardon granted to the party so sentenced shall restore such party to his or her conjugal rights); where, prior to the marriage, either party, without the knowledge of the other, had been convicted of an infamous offense; where either party charged with an offense punishable with death or confinement in the penitentiary has been indicted, is a fugitive from justice, and has been absent for two years: where either party willfully abandons or deserts the other for five years, a divorce may be decreed to the party abandoned; where at the time of the marriage, the wife, without the knowledge of her husband, was enceinte by some person other than the husband, or prior to such marriage had been, without the knowledge of the husband, notoriously a prostitute, such divorce may be decreed to the husband;

but no such divorce shall be decreed if it appears that the party applying for the same has cohabited with the other after knowledge of such conviction of an infamous offense, or has cohabited with the wife after knowledge of the fact that she was enceinte, or had been a prostitute, as aforesaid. A divorce from bed and board may be decreed for cruelty, reasonable apprehension of bodily hurt, abandonment, or desertion. The circuit courts on the chancery side have jurisdiction of suits for annulling or affirming marriages or for divorces. No such suit shall be maintainable unless the parties or one of them is a resident of the State at the time of bringing the suit. The court in term, or the judge in vacation, may, pending suit, make any order to compel the man to pay any sums necessary for the maintenance of the woman, and to enable her to carry on the suit, or to prevent him from imposing any restraint on her personal liberty, or to provide for the custody and maintenance of the minor children of the parties during the pendency of the suit; or to preserve the estate of the man so that it be forthcoming to meet any decree which may be made in the suit, or to compel him to give security to abide such decree. Upon decreeing the dissolution of a marriage, and also upon decreeing a divorce, whether from the bond of matrimony or from bed and board, the court may make such further decree as it shall deem expedient, concerning the estate and maintenance of the parties or either of them, and the care, custody, and maintenance of their minor children, and may determine with which of the parents the children, or any of them, shall remain; and the court may from time to time afterwards, on the petition of either of the parents, revise, and alter such decree concerning the care, custody, and maintenance of the children, and make a new decree concerning the same, as the circumstances of the parents and the benefit of the children may require.

West Virginia.—Divorce Law.—A divorce from the bond of matrimony may be decreed for adultery, impotency, willful abandonment or desertion for three years, where either of the parties is sentenced to confinement in the penitentiary, or prior to the marriage, without the knowledge of the other, had been convicted of an infamous offense, and (unless condoned) where the wife at the time of marriage (without knowledge of the husband) was enceinte by some other person; or prior thereto had been notoriously a prostitute; or where the husband prior to the marriage had, without the knowledge of the wife, been notoriously a licentious person. Marriages which were solemnized within the State may also be annulled and made void from the rendition of the decree, for the following reasons, namely; where one is a white person and the other a negro; where either had a former wife or husband then living; for consanguinity or affinity between the parties; where either party was insane, or incapable from physical causes of entering into the marriage state; or where the male was under the age of fourteen or the female under the age of twelve. A divorce from bed and board may be decreed for cruel or inhuman treatment, reasonable apprehension of bodily hurt, abandonment, desertion, or where either party after marriage becomes an habitual drunkard. A charge of prostitution falsely made by the husband against the wife is cruel treatment. The circuit court has jurisdiction on the chancery side thereof, where one of the parties is a resident of the State, in the county in which the parties last cohabited (or, at the option of the plaintiff, in the county in which the defendant resides, if a resident of the State, but if not, then in the county in which the plaintiff resides), and upon the service of a summons, or if the defendant is a non-resident of the State, upon due publication made. The court has power to make any further decree concerning the estate and maintenance of the parties, or either of them, and the care and custody of minor children, which it may deem expedient. No suit for divorce can be maintained unless the parties, or one of them, shall have resided in the State one year next preceeding the time of bringing the suit.

Wisconsin.—Divorce Law.—Divorce granted a vinculo, for 1. Adultery. 2. Impotency. 3. After sentence to three years or more imprisonment. 4. Willful desertion for one year next preceding complaint filed. 5. Cruel and inhuman treatment, and for wife's being given to intoxication. 6. When either is a habitual drunkard for one year before complaint filed. 7. Entire separation for five years voluntarily. Granted a mensa: 1. For either 4th, 5th, or 6th cause above. 2. For extreme cruelty. 3. On wife's complaint, when husband, of sufficient ability, fails to provide for her, or his conduct towards her renders it unsafe and improper for her to live with him. In either of the latter cases divorce a vinculo may be granted, in the discretion of the court. Plaintiff must have been a resident of the State for one year before complaint filed, unless divorce is claimed for adultery committed while petitioner was a resident of the State, or the marriage was here solemnized, and the parties have since marriage here resided; or unless action is brought by wife and the husband shall have resided in this State one year preceding action. Service of summons in such cases may be made as in other actions, personally, at the place of abode, or by publication on absentees. Wife usually takes her own, and such alimony from her husband's property as the case warrants according to the general doctrine of alimony. Real estate may be set over.

The acts of one partner bind all the others.
Agents are responsible to their principals for errors.
Each individual in a partnership is responsible for the
wh. le amount of the debts of the firm.
Notes bear interest only when so stated.
It is not legally necessary to say on a note "for value received."
A note obtained by fraud, or from a person in a state of intoxication can not be collected.
If a note be lost or stolen, it does not release the maker;
he must pay it.
An indorser of a note is exempt from liability if not served with notice of its dishonor within twenty four hours of its non-payment.
Part payment of a debt which has passed the statutory limitation revives the whole debt, and the claim holds good from the date of such partial payment until again expired
by limitation.
A verbal promise to pay, made without conditions, is generally held as sufficient to revive a claim otherwise shut out by the law of limitation. The Statute of Limitations does not void, or cancel the debt, but only provides that no action in law may be maintained after a given time. The statute does not affect collateral security.
If a debtor owe several debts to one creditor, and pays him a sum of money, the debtor has the right to designate the particular debt to which the payment shall apply, and the creditor must so appropriate it.
An oral agreement must be proved by evidence.
A written agree ment proves itself.
No evidence may be introduced to contradict or vary a written contract, but it may be received, in order to explain it when such contract is in need of explanation.

Laws Relative to the Mortgage of Personal Property in the Several States and Territories.

A mortgage is an absolute conveyance in its form, but is intended only as a pledge for the security of a debt; and when the debt is paid, the mortgage becomes void, and should always contain a clause to that effect. All mortgage should contain a clause giving right of redemption.

Alabama.—A mortgage to be legal in this State, must be recorded. But if property is brought into this State subject to such incumbrance, it must be registered within four months; and if such property be removed to a different county from that in which the grantor resides the conveyance must be recorded within six months from the removal. A mortgage must be recorded in the county where the property is, and where the grantor resides. Mortgages must enter payments on the margin of the record which they receive, at the request of any bona fide creditor of mortgagor or the mortgagee himself.

Arkansas.—As a lien, a mortgage is of no avail except recorded in the county where the mortgagor resides. When paid, mortgagee must so indorse on record within sixty days. But a mortgage may be filed if indorsed by mortgagee and be valid against all comers for one year. Mortgage on future crops is valid.

California.—Mortgages are void as to third parties unless recorded, and accompanied by affidavit that all parties thereto are acting in good faith and without fraudulent intent; must be recorded in county where mortgagor lives and where the property is, or in the county to which it may be removed. Upon satisfaction of mortgage, mortgagee must give discharge; penalty, $100 for refusal so to do.

Colorado.—As against third parties, a mortgage is not valid unless there be a delivery to the mortgagee of such property, in whose hands it shall remain until the lien expires, or unless the mortgagor shall acknowledge such mortgage before some officer authorized to take acknowledgments of deeds of real estate in this State. If the mortgagor retain possession of the property mortgaged, the mortgage must expressly provide for such possession. The conveyance of such property without notice to mortgagee is deemed larceny; concealment of such property is misdemeanor. Failure to record mortgage will not invalidate lien if party obtaining interest in such property has notice of mortgage.

Connecticut.—On property not perishable in its nature a mortgage is good, although the grantor retains possession, but the deed shall be recorded as mortgages of lands. Property exempt from execution is a proper subject for mortgage. The conveyance of any other kind of personal property is void as against creditors unless accompanied by possession. Fraudulent sale or removal of mortgaged property is punishable as a misdemeanor.

Dakota.—Mortgage must be signed by two witnesses, and no further acknowledgment is required. It is void unless filed in the county where the property is, and only runs three years. It may be renewed by affidavit as to amount of claim, if not satisfied. Creditor of mortgagor may attach or levy if he pays mortgagee his whole claim.

Delaware.—A mortgage, if recorded within ten days from execution, will be valid for three years in the county recorder's office where said property is. Affidavit of good faith of parties, and absence of fraudulent intent, must be filed with mortgage. To remove such property without consent is a misdemeanor. The lien of a purchase money mortgage, recorded within sixty days after it is made, has preference to any judgment or lien against the mortgagor.

District of Columbia.—A mortgage not recorded within twenty days after execution is invalid except as between parties thereto. No bill of sale, deed of trust or mortgage for property exempt by law from execution, is binding unless joined in by wife.

Florida.—Mortgages of personal property are effectual and valid only when recorded in the office of record for the county in which the mortgaged property shall be at the time of the execution of the mortgage; unless the said property is delivered to the mortgagee within twenty days from execution, and he retains possession of the same. Real and personal mortgages are admitted to record on same proof.

Georgia.—Mortgage is only security for debt, and passes no title. It must be recorded within thirty days in the county where mortgagor resides; if a non-resident, then where the property is. Donee is liable for taxes, and so is the property, no matter where found. Property mortgaged out of, and brought into the State must be recorded within six months.

Idaho.—Mortgage must state residence of parties thereto, rate of interest, the sum to be secured by the mortgage, when and where payable. Grantor shall make oath that he is acting in good faith, and that the mortgage is bona fide. It must be recorded in county where property is, also where grantor lives. No mortgage made otherwise than as above shall be valid unless possession accompanies title. It may be attached by grantor's creditors if they pay mortgagee amount due him with costs.

Illinois.—No conveyance of personal property having the effect of a mortgage of personal property shall be valid against third persons unless possession is given to mortgagee, or a stipulation to the effect that the property is to remain in possession of grantor. Must be acknowledged and recorded in county where grantor lives, and, if non-resident there, where property is. Mortgage is valid for two years only.

Indiana.—No mortgage of goods shall be valid against any other person than the parties thereto, where such goods are not delivered to mortgagee and retained by him, unless said mortgage is acknowledged, as in case of deeds, and recorded in recorder's office of county where mortgagor resides within ten days thereof. The concealment or conveyance of such property without consent of mortgagor is misdemeanor.

Iowa.—A mortgage must be recorded in the county where holder of property resides, and must be acknowledged as other conveyances. The sheriff can foreclose without action in court, and the sale shall be in same manner as other sheriff sales. Unless otherwise provided, the mortgaged property is left in possession of mortgagor.

Kansas.—A mortgage must be recorded where the property is. When immediate delivery does not take place, the mortgage is void as to grantor's creditors. It is void in one year unless affidavit of non-satisfaction is filed.

Kentucky.—The property mortgaged may remain in the possession of the mortgagor if recorded, but not otherwise. Five years' possession gives title against mortgagee.

Louisiana.—In this State there is no mortgage of personal property. The law allows the following liens upon portable property: The privilege of vendor on goods not paid for; for loans advanced for supplies and necessary expenses, also for debts due for same; the privilege of owner in property leased; liens for labor and materials furnished on buildings repaired or erected. To avail of the privileges a statement under oath of indebtedness in detail, recorded in parish where property is, is necessary, and, to have effect against third parties, the record must be made the day the contract was entered into. Mortgages made in good faith in other States will be recognized here.

Maine.—Mortgages made to secure over $30 are void unless possession is given to, and retained by, the mortgagee, and the mortgage recorded in the town where the mortgagor lives, if a resident of the State; if not, then where the property is.

Maryland.—If mortgages are properly acknowledged and recorded as bills of sale, even though remaining in possession of mortgagor, they are valid, provided the mortgagee shall make oath at the time of execution, before some person duly authorized, that the consideration stated in the bill of sale is true and bona fide. They must be recorded where the vendor resides within twenty days from date, and they may be acknowledged before any person duly authorized. If acknowledged within the State, it must be in the city or county where vendor resides, and before a justice of the peace.

Massachusetts.—A mortgage must be recorded where the mortgagor resides when the mortgage is made, and in the city or town where he has his usual place of business. Mortgage must be recorded where the property is when the mortgage is made, if mortgagor resides outside the State, unless mortgage be recorded within fifteen days from date thereof, or the property be in possession of mortgagee. It shall not be valid against any person other than the parties thereto, except in the case of a contract of bottomry, or transfer, or mortgage, assignment of a ship or vessel, and also except in case of any transfer or mortgage of goods at sea or abroad, if the mortgagee takes possession of such goods as soon as may be after their arrival in this State. When a sale of personal property is made on instalments, and the condition is broken, the seller may retake property, but the lessee shall have the right to redeem in fifteen days by payment of balance due and costs.

Michigan.—If mortgagor be a non-resident, the mortgage, if unaccompanied by delivery of property, must be recorded where property is; if resident, in the office of the clerk of the city or town where the mortgagor resides. The mortgagee must, before the expiration of each year, file an affidavit stating his claim on the property. Mortgagee may purchase at sale under foreclosure. Provisions of mortgages as to foreclosure should be full and explicit, and they will have the weight of law.

Minnesota.—Every mortgage not accompanied by immediate delivery is void as to creditors of, and purchasers from, grantor, unless it appears that it was executed in good faith, and a true copy is filed in the place where the property is, and a copy where the grantor lives, if in the State. It is valid only for two years.

Mississippi.—Mortgages are notices from date of record to third parties, and must be recorded in the office of the clerk of the court of chancery for the county where the property is. They must be acknowledged or proved before recorded. If the property or any part thereof be removed to another county, it must be recorded or proved. Mortgage is void if it omits provisions relative to foreclosure, sale, etc., and may be foreclosed in accordance with such provisions.

Missouri.—All mortgages, gift-deeds, etc., are void as against creditors and subsequent buyers, unless duly acknowledged, proved or recorded, or possession of the same is given the grantee and retained by him.

Montana.—Mortgages are good for one year only, when accompanied by immediate delivery of chattels, and continued possession by grantor, or by the acknowledging and filing of the mortgage in the county where grantor lives, accompanied by affidavit in good faith and without fraud, or, if non-resident, then where the goods are at the time. The chattels may be taken on execution if the debt, interest, and costs are paid to grantor.

Nebraska.—Mortgages are void if not filed in county where grantor lives, or, if non-resident, where property is. Mortgages must contain averment of good faith and absence of fraud; otherwise absolute and continued change must take place. The mortgage ceases to be valid in five years.

Nevada.—Mortgages are not valid unless accompanied by possession or recorded, and contain affidavit of good faith.

STATE INSOLVENT LAWS.

The following is a digest of the laws of each State bearing prominently on the questions of insolvency and assignments:

Alabama.—Has no insolvent law. Assignments without preferences are legal, but do not release debtor from liability.

Arizona.—No insolvent law.

Arkansas.—Assignments with or without preference are valid. The assignee must sell at auction within one hundred and twenty days all the property assigned, and must give a bond in double the amount.

California.—Assignments are valid without preferences, and under them debtor is discharged from his liabilities. A discharge is not allowed when the debts due are by a person acting in the capacity of a commission merchant, banker, or broker.

Connecticut.—In voluntary assignments debtor can choose trustee himself, subject to approval of probate court. The court may also appoint trustee on motion of a judgment creditor for over $100 if there be nothing to attach. The debtor receives a full discharge if the estate pays seventy per cent of all claims, and an allowance is made to the debtor for the support of his family.

Colorado.—No insolvency law.

Dakota.—Has no insolvent law. Assignments are valid when made without preferences, but invalid if any creditor refuses his assent thereto, or if any benefit is reserved to assignor, or if any power is conferred on assignee which has a tendency to delay the conversion of the property.

Delaware.—No preferred assignments allowed, and there is no provision for the discharge of the debtor upon his making an assignment. The schedule of property assigned must be filed within thirty days, when the chancellor appoints two appraisers.

Florida.—No insolvent law. Property may be assigned with or without preference.

Georgia.—Has no insolvent law. Assignments with or without preferences are valid when made in good faith, and no benefit is reserved to the assignor. No imprisonment for debt.

Idaho.—If a debtor makes an assignment in good faith, it releases him from all liability.

Illinois.—No preferred claims allowed. Debtor, after assignment, is not released from his liabilities. Jurisdiction in case of assignment is vested in the county court. Claims must be proved within three months; otherwise they draw no dividends till all properly presented claims are paid in full. The final account of assignee must be rendered within one year, and he must file bond, inventory, and valuation. The debtor, with a majority of the creditors in number and amount, may discontinue proceedings at any time. All debts must be paid pro rata.

Indiana.—Assignments for the benefit of all the creditors valid. No preferences allowed. The assignment must be signed and acknowledged, and filed within ten days after its execution with the recorder of the county in which debtor resides. A bond must be filed in circuit court, also copy of assignment, by trustee, in same court, within fifteen days after execution of assignment. The property must be appraised by two reputable householders, and an inventory must be filed in court by trustee within thirty days. Property to the value of $600 must be set off to debtor's credit, and balance sold publicly or privately, as the court may approve. Pro rata dividends are declared, and debtor is not released from his liability.

Iowa.—Assignments made be made for the benefit of all creditors. Creditors must prove and file their claims with the assignee within three months from date of assignment. The debtor is not released from his liabilities after assignment.

Kansas.—Assignments do not release the debtor, and preferred claims not allowed. Clerk of district court notifies all creditors (above ten dollars), and an assignee is appointed by them if a majority be present, otherwise by the court. Assignee is subject to the order of the court. Assignments must be executed and recorded like conveyances of real property.

Kentucky.—Preferred claims not allowed. An assignment may be made for the benefit of all the creditors, but debtor can not be discharged till debts are paid in full. Trustee is required to give bonds, and his account must be settled in two years.

Louisiana.—Assignments may be made for the benefit of all the creditors, but mortgage creditors may ask for the sale of sufficient to satisfy their claim. A syndic is elected by the creditors, who gives a band for the proper management of the estate. The final release of the debtor can only be obtained by consent of the majority of the creditors in number and amount.

Maine.—Assignments are allowed and will be held to cover all property. Creditors have three months' time to avail themselves of the assignment. Has a system of insolvency both voluntary and involuntary. If debts are less than $300, the debtor may be discharged from arrest by making a general disclosure. When not less than $300, assignees may be elected and approved of by court, with power to dispose of property, divide assets, and pay expenses. A discharge may be annulled within two years, where it can be proved that debts have been contracted by fraud and breach of trust.

Maryland.—Petitions may be either voluntary or involuntary. An involuntary petition may be filed by one or more creditors whose debts aggregate $250, giving causes required by statute. A debtor, on being discharged, is released from the claims of all creditors living in the State, and also from the claims of such non-resident creditors as are filed in the proceedings. No assignments with preferences are allowed, but assignments for the benefit of all creditors are valid.

Massachusetts.—The insolvent law of this State has jurisdiction over debts contracted outside the State, if proven. Assignee is chosen by majority in value, and the assent of majority in number and value is necessary for discharge if assets do not amount to fifty per cent or over, but not otherwise, said assent to be filed within six months from date of assignment. The law may be availed of by any person owing $100 or more, and a creditor may apply for distribution of estate within ninety days after the commission of the act of insolvency. In proving claims, original notes must be annexed. Attachments must be made four months prior to initiation of insolvency proceedings, to hold against assignment in insolvency; otherwise they are dissolved. Proof of claim must be made according to statute. Simple affidavit of indebtedness not allowed.

An inventory must be filed by assignee, in probate court, within thirty days, and a copy of the assignment within ten days. South Carolina.—A debtor when under arrest can effect his discharge by making an assignment of all his property. The compensation of assignees is five per cent, and they must report to creditors every three months. The claims of creditors who have not participated in dividends are valid.

Tennessee.—No insolvent law. Preferences are allowed. A bond is required from assignee, when the value of property exceeds $500. An assignment does not release debtor from liability.

Texas.—No preferred claims valid. A general assignment must be recorded, with sworn inventory annexed, of all creditors, giving details of claims, etc. Assignments may be made with such creditors only as will accept their pro rata in release of debtor. It is a felony to conceal property before or after assignment with intent to defraud.

Utah.—No insolvency law.

Vermont.—There can be no preferred creditors in making assignments. The insolvent law does not affect non-resident creditors. In insolvency matters the probate courts have jurisdiction.

Virginia.—No insolvent law. A debtor may voluntarily assign his property for the benefit of his creditors, and may make preferences. The unsatisfied claims of such creditors are not thereby invalidated.

Washington Territory.—The debtor may be discharged under insolvent law, if his assets equal one-third of his debts, and no preference shown or fraud proved.

West Virginia.—No insolvent law. Assignments may be made, but do not act as a release. A debtor under arrest may be discharged by conveying such of his property as is not exempt by law. Assignments must be filed in the office of clerk of county court, and must be acknowledged as other deeds. In assigning real estate, the assignor's wife must so acknowledge it as to bar her dower.

Wisconsin.—Assignments for the benefit of all creditors only are allowed, and a discharge exempts debtor from all further liability. Petition must be filed in Supreme or Circuit Court. Creditors can contest right of assignment, and demand jury trial.

Wyoming.—No insolvent law. Assignments may be made legally without preference.

Read Plain Facts

The best evidence of the merits of a Proprietary Medicine is its popularity at home, among people of intelligence, and its large and regular demand from its local druggists. Judged by this, Dr. Jas. C. Kerr's SYSTEM-RENOVATOR is not equaled by any other medicine. A great number of our leading citizens, many of whom are men of national reputation, have not hesitated to give their published indorsements of its great value. Not only at home, but noted divines and prominent men of other cities, have done the same thing in language that forcibly and unmistakably expressed their high opinion of its positive merit.

NOTE: Its remarkable results in all cases of impure blood, or any derangement of the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys or Bowels, fully proves its great worth as a successful Renovator of the System. In other words, it exterminates the germ of disease, Builds up Debilitated Constitutions, Restores Vital Energy, Sharpens the appetite, Promotes Sleep, Aids Digestion, and strengthens the Mind and Body.

 One Bottle will demonstrate its good effects.

GEN. THOMAS L. YOUNG, Ex-Governor of Ohio says: "I have used it myself and in my family for over a year, and it excels any thing I have tried as a PURGATIVE AND LIVER REGULATOR. I know of nothing that will equal it. I have heard many inquiries for it here at the Capitol."

REV. GEORGE HUGHES, Prominent Methodist Minister and one of the Editors of The Guide to Holiness, Bible House, New York: "I have used this Medicine in my family for a number of years with the happiest results. I regard it as a truly meritorious family remedy, and can conscientiously and cheerfully recommend it."

HON. ALFRED YAPLE, Ex-Judge Superior Court, Cincinnati: "No medicine I have ever taken has been so efficient in giving proper tone to the STOMACH AND LIVER. It causes no weakness or depression of the system while operating."

HON. SAM'L R. MATTHEWS, Judge of the Common Pleas Court, Cincinnati, O.: "I have always found it a faithful servant in case of sickness, and recommend it as an invaluable and trustworthy family remedy."

M. M. POMEROY, ESQ., Late Editor New York "Democrat.": "It is the very best BLOOD PURIFIER I ever saw or knew of. I personally know where it has restored to perfect health and renewed life persons so afflicted with SCROFULA AND IMPURE BLOOD as to utterly despair of ever regaining the health they had supposed lost."

REV. HENRY D. MOORE, Editor Masonic "Review," Cincinnati: "I have derived much benefit from its use, and find it very prompt in relieving HEAD-ACHE, DEPRESSION, AND RESTLESSNESS. I am glad my old friend of forty years, Rev. Geo. Hughes, speaks so highly of your medicine."

HON. JAMES HARLAN, Ex-Judge Chancery Court, Louisville: "It is superior to all the saline preparations, and when taken properly, it is of great benefit to the LIVER. I can, with confidence, recommend it."

JUDGE ROBERT M. BARTON, Prominent Attorney, Chattanooga, Tennessee: "As an efficient and reliable aid to DIGESTIVE ORGANS I most cordially recommend it, and for CHRONIC CONSTIPATION I know of no better remedy."

If your Druggist does not have the SYSTEM-RENOVATOR on hand, do not be persuaded to take a substitute, but let him order it for you from his wholesale jobber; all of whom keep it in stock.
